THE PEOPLE'S PENNY PAPER.

THE TIMES has become the popular moraing paper of Washington. Its rapid growth and the engerness with which it is sought on the streets each morning shows that the morning penny paper is the public favorite.

In the columns of THE TIMES this morning will be found all the current news published in a bright, crisp, attractive manner. There is no padding of telegrams, no verbose communications, no lengthy argument without special meaning. Every line is divested of is printed in a concise, comprehensive style that wins the approval of its readers.

Look this paper over carefully and see if there is not more than a penny's worth of information. And if it meets your favor speak a good word for THE TIMES whenever occasion may present.

STOP HARMFUL SPECULATION.

There is no use disguising the fact that another bond issue is necessary or this country must go on a silver basis, which means gold

Ever since the introduction of the Carlisle till, New York bankers have charged Secretary Carlisle with a breach of faith, and in retaliation have attempted to cripple tha Treasury by exhausting our gold reserve. As evidence of this statement, all the $50,000,000 put into the Treasury by the last bond sale has been withdrawn within the last seven weeks, and nearly one-half of it is said to be on deposit in the New York banks.

It is apparent that with insufficient revenues to meet expenditures and with a curreacy redocmable over and over again in gold, we are at the mercy of the bankers,

Another Issue of bonds would only give opportunity for a repetition of the experience we are now undergoing, and until either our revenues are increased, or the objectionable currency is withdrawn from circulation we must bow in subjection to Wall street.

None of the propositions presented to Con-gress seem to reach the evil of the situation. Additional currency would do no good nor would a reorganisation of our banking system provide a remedy. Free colnage of silver might be neceptable if the country adopts a silver basis, but the most reasonable way out of our troubles would be an increase of revemues to prevent harmfut speculations in our

NOT A GOOD RECORD.

The passage of the Nicaragua bill in the Sepate is the first step of that gigantic attack on the public treasury. It will probably pass a warning against the folly of betraying party principles for the sake of private gain.

THE RIGHTS OF THE PUBLIC.

The decision of Justice Gaynor that railroad companies must keep their cars running and pay wages sufficient for that purpose, is at least a recognition of the rights of the public,

As public carriers railroad companies demand protection from mob violence and destruction of property. Heretofore they have taken their own time to replace striking employes, and have paid such wages as their own pleasure dictated. Justice Gaypor's de cision requires them to act promptly and not to delay on the question of wages. Another suggestion. If railroad corporations are given public protection, why should they not be compelled to pay remunerative wages? A national arbitration law would bring about this result. It would also do much to preyent strikes and maintain friendly relations between railroads and their

No oxe, not even the buil-fighters, will object to the settlement of that little dispute between Corbett and Fitzsimmons in the bull ring at Hayanna, Cuba.

THERE is a painful want of clink among the gold bags in the Treasury.

THE several Senatorial contests now in progress may yet demonstrate the truth of the old saying that every mun has his price.

The first of the two subscription balls to be given by the debutantes of Washington society occurred at Wormley's Hotel last night. The rooms were decerated with paims and flowers and had quite a festive appearance, that was well in keeping with the fashionable event.

The plan upon which the ball was gotten up was rather in the nature of a leap-year entertainment. No married women were asked to take part, upon signifying her acceptance, was expected to inclose $10. An old man's selfish love for his daughter and how it cased her the greatest unhappiness of her life forms the ground work of the play. The selfen opens in the home of Buchanan Billings, a man of possibly fifty years, who has accumulated a fortune and is energed in the wholesale grocery business. His wife has been dead some years, and he has an only capetier, Nell, of whom he thinks the world, and when she falls in love with Frank Hamilton, a young man holding a responsible position in her father's business house, the old man does not hesitate about giving his consent to their marriage.

Who Owns This Overcoat!—Detective Lacey recovered a handsome overcoat last night which a well-known thief was trying to sell. The coat is of black cloth, with gray pladi lining. It has a velvet collar and the sleeves are lined with brown silk. The buttons are of black gutta-percha, and the coat awaits an owner at police headquarters. It was Dorsey and not Murphy who fouled His Grace with Doc Birch Thursday. Classic ran her race while at the post, The Boden's bet their life on Billy Boy. Joyeuse's race yesterday will not bear con parison with her previous time out.

Morris let Haleyon run herself into the Mask was many pounds the best horse in the fourth contest.

RIVAL RACE TRACKS AGREE.

Alexander Island and St. Asaph Owners President Jones, of the Old Dominic

ockey Club, stated last night that an entente cordinie had been established with the Virginia Jockey Club, and the relations this year will be of a harmonfous character.

This means that while realing shall be in progress at the Alexander Island track the St. Asaph course will be closed, and vice versa. Mr. Jones said that the only question to decide is the arrangement of dates, and it is likely that the schedule will not be known for some weeks.

for some weeks.

The St. Asaph management desire fifteen days of alternate racing, but the Old Dominion Club will hold out for every other day. This is the only point on which the old rivais have disagreed, and it will be settled before the opening up in March. The majority of racing men are in favor of the every-other-day plan.

day plan.

The condition of the two tracks will be satisfying to all sportsmen, as the opposition threatened to kill the sport.

Your Chance

Of being suited in the half-price goods. A necessary evil of a big business is lots of odd garments at the end of a season. The moment a garment gets "lonesome" here off goes a big slice of the price, and out of the house it goes double quick. We have gathered together all the broken lines of Men's Suits-Boys' Long Pants Suits-Men's Boys'-and Children's Winter Overcoats-Men's Spring Overcoats and Swallow Tail Coats-and placed them on separate tables. Every garment has its originalfirst-of-the-season price ticket attached-and if you can find your size take it for exactly half of what its marked-
